Arch Duke Ferdinand shot!

Yesterday the Arch duke Ferdinand of Austria-Hungary was shot dead in the streets of Sarajevo. He was loved by many of Austria-Hungarians, but none could help as they watched their heir to the Austrian throne assassinated!

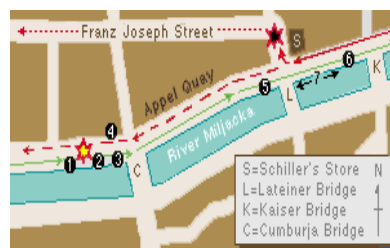

Many wondered why the first car pulled away from the line of cars as this caused the young assassins chance to finish what he had come to do. These Serbian assassins were ruthless and blood thirsty quite the representation of all Serbians.

Gavrilo Princip member of the 'Black Hand' and true hater of all Austrian-Hungarians. Princip jumped from the crowd in order to shoot the duke and his beloved wife Sophie. The crowd stood petrified as all cars drove off rapidly to tend to the wounded. with nowhere to run Princip was caught beaten up and taken away. 10 minutes later the Arch- duke was pronounced dead with his wife Sophie. ^Here shows the route taken by Ferdinand and his wife to their death.

Later the Austrian police went into investigation of the 'Black hand' Their results were positive and they found the source of the gang and gathered the group together. 3 of the members were hanged including the leader and the rest were put into jail from up to 15 years and up. The Austrian government have had enough and will decide what to do later on in this week.

Clearly Serbia are at fault and must be disciplined, they are a disruptive Country to our World and may have triggered a war.

What will be the chain reaction after this? Will it trigger a war?

- Rumours are spreading in all countries and all wonder if this is the final point and the trigger to a war.
- Austria-Hungary will not just let this float past them, in fact they might do the opposite.
- The Austrians feel very insulted about the murder of their Arch Duke and might propose to go to war with Serbia!
- Serbia will have little chance against the Austrians, so Russia would feel it was their duty to help the Slav's in this battle.
- Germany's alliance with Austria would be put to action and they would immediately mobilise troops to help Austria.
- If Germany take this battle to hand they could decide to attack France due to it's constant pressure on Germany and their threats .
- And would most likely choose to go through Belgium due to it's flat land, If Belgium let them trample through the Schlieffen plan would work, but if the Belgians choose to fight for their country they could slow down the German troops.
- Slowing down the German troops would enable the British elite troops to get to the ports before the Germans.
- This would leave the Germans surrounded and would have to fight to stay alive, Trench warfare may come into use between the triple Entente and the alliance, no one knows, but the sense of WAR is lurking in the air.
