

1 December 1349

Volume 1, Issue 1

The Medieval

Mystery plague creeps through Europe

The new plague, the black death what is it, well its evil perhaps sent by god for all our sins who knows but I know one thing, you definitely don't want to get it.

How do you know if you have it

Well first you get buboes under your arms

Second you get terrible fevers and you vomit and spit blood

Thirdly you would have black spots appearing all over your body

Fourthly spasms would occur as the deceives attacked the nerve system

Fifthly your buboes would burst

And sixthly DEATH

The Black death is sweeping all over Europe affecting nearly everyone as it destroyed lives. It carries on easily and there is cure for it. It's a wonder if anyone is safe these days. Many people are trying to figure out what the course of this tragic thing is. Could it be sent by God as a repayment for all our sins, or perhaps it has been carried over from another country by some foreigner, or even its because are streets are so dirty or maybe the rats that get onto the boats have brought it over from other countries, we may never know. There have been cures which don't work like eating ten year old treacle or cutting open your boils and burning it with a hot pecker even rubbing a dead pigeon on you to boil and many more.

How did we really get the Black Death? Right back in the middle ages in the middle east in 1348 the deceive was brought in a piece of cloth for a dress maker in Melcombe, which is in a part of Dorset, and from there it spread all over the country destroying every ones

